Instructie vanuit British Medical Association (BMA)

The BMA believes face coverings should be mandatory in all scenarios where 2 metre physical distancing cannot be maintained between people from different households or 'bubbles', and there are no other mitigating measures in place, such as plastic screens.
Protect others, prevent the spread – wear a face covering

Kinderen betrekken bij dragen maskers

- School age children might enjoy decorating their own mask with favorite colors and characters using art materials, which gives them a sense of control during this time. Children at this age also enjoy games with rules to follow. Perhaps your family could make a group game out of maintaining social distancing in public places. Maybe the game includes points for staying 6 feet apart and/or sticker charts for increased incentive.
- Teenagers value independence and seeking their own sense of identity. Although wearing a mask is not a choice, perhaps give your teenage child the freedom to choose or purchase their own mask(s) to promote self-expression and turn it into a fashion statement.
